

Governor Gets AFL Backing In 1952 Election

By JACK I. GREEN

LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Republican hopes to the contrary, the bulk of Michigan Federation of Labor probably will string along with Governor Williams in the 1952 election.

Two events, more than any others, in the past week have raised doubts in some minds about the political plans of the Federation, have caused some Republican hearts to begin bubbling with cheer, and have had the second-guessers looking wisely at each other.

Secretary Asked Out

But the insiders said these events don't mean what they seem to.

The first was the decision of Robert Scott, Secretary of the Federation, to resign as delegate-at-large to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago.

The second was the resignation "to enter private business" of Clinton M. Fair, the Federation's zealous little lobbyist and former administrative aide to Williams.

Scott gave down with considerable evasive double-talk about his refusal to take part in nominating Williams for the presidency of the United States.

He spoke of his poor health and murmured other pleasanties. But the consensus of political star-gazers is that Scott, who owes his job to James Hoffa, teamster union boss in Michigan, was ordered by Hoffa to shear off from the Williams camp.

Noise Made By CIO

Jimmie reportedly is mad because Williams rejected Ben Levinson, Detroit mortgage broker, as the administration's candidate for Democratic National committee-man. Levinson was Hoffa's choice, and Hoffa figures that his contributions, financial and otherwise, to the party merit him a strong voice in the selection.

Fair denies that his resignation as lobbyist has any connection with the Williams-Federation relationship.

He was known to be ready to take after Williams with a St. Ignace tomahawk when the governor swallowed the CIO's reapportionment plan and rejected that of the Federation. But Fair says that doesn't enter into his

Protect Trees, Williams Urges

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Michigan's forests, just coming into a new era of their second harvest must be protected by a non-political conservation commission, says Governor Williams.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association, the governor said he pledged "that as long as I have anything to say about it the conservation department never will be subjected to partisan pressures."

Recounting that the first commercial harvest of red pine planted more than 30 years ago was authorized last year the governor said the event marked the opening of the era of controlled harvesting of Michigan's new forests. He said this harvest "will be the most severe test of our whole historic program."

"Tremendous pressures," he said, "are sure to develop from private interests seeking to exploit the people's forest lands. A new crop of would-be despoilers will be busy pulling political strings trying to reap for themselves the profits of the reforestation program."

"It will be our task x x x to make certain that these pressures do not succeed."

House Chops Foreign Aid By $1,737,400,000

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Administration leaders opened an attack today to restore some of $1,737,400,000 the House cut out of President Truman's foreign aid program for next year. The evident hope was that the Senate would go easier with the pruning knife.

Overtone of the presidential campaign were obvious as the House chopped the big aid bill from the $7,900,000,000 Truman asked to $6,162,600,000 before approving it last night. The roll call vote on passage was 245 to 110.

Poachers Shoot At Farm Cattle

EMPIRE, Mich.—(AP)—Three men caught near here last night after a wild, bullet-punctured chase by a Leelanau county farmer today face Circuit Court action on a charge of malicious injury to animals.

The men, Paul Schaub, 51, of Cedar; Paul Amore, 39, and his brother, Jerry, 43, of Lake Leelanau, were captured by farmer Nicholas R. Miller with the aid of State Police.

Miller was awakened by the sound of shots in his farmyard. He rushed from his bed to find the three men firing at his cattle.

Grabbing a 30-30 rifle, Miller shot at the trio.

The trio fled back before fleeing in an automobile. The irate farmer leaped into his own car to give chase. He cornered the three men when they turned into a driveway and smashed into a parked car.

Confronted by Conservation Officer Leon Cluff, the trio denied they had been after cattle. They claimed a lesser offense of shining deer.

Justice Paul Mork of Suttons Bay fined the three $10 each on the deer shining charge. Schaub, who has a record of previous game law violations, was placed on three years probation and forbidden to hunt during that time.

The men were taken to the Benzie county jail to await hearing on the animal injury charge.

Eisenhower And Taft Tussles On In 3 States

(By The Associated Press)

Republicans in three states name a total of 51 presidential-nominating delegates today (Saturday), with the battle in each pitched along Taft-Eisenhower lines.

The tussles in Washington, Maryland and Minnesota shaped up this way:

Washington—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's backers appeared in control of the convention at Spokane, where the state's 24 delegates to the national convention will be chosen.

Seattle Key Unit

They claim they will win as many as 22. The balance of power rests with representatives from Seattle, who constitute nearly one-third of the state convention. The Seattle group is pledged to vote as one for Eisenhower delegates.

Backers of Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, however, are talking of a possible walkout to protest this pledge. They won an initial victory last night when the convention rules committee decided to recommend that delegations can not vote as a unit. A motion from the Eisenhower side to reverse this ruling is expected today.

Split In Maryland

Maryland—Gov. Theodore McKeldin appeared a cinch to get Maryland's 24 GOP votes as a "favorite son" candidate. But this would only last through the first ballot at the July 7 national convention in Chicago.

After that, indications point to a split between Taft and Eisenhower. McKeldin himself is not saying publicly what his preferences are. Once widely tabbed an Eisenhower man, he has been complimentary to Taft of late. Intimates still insist he favors the

Brutal Tactics Used At Jackson Prison, Says Ousted Deputy

DETROIT—(AP)—Dr. Vernon Fox, recently deposed assistant deputy warden of Southern Michigan prison, yesterday claimed that the huge penal institution "has reverted to old time brutal tactics of bread and water and rubber hose punishments" since the April mutiny.

Speaking to an audience at Wayne University, Dr. Fox said his resignation as assistant deputy warden "was inevitable."

"It was a question of whether I wanted to be associated with prison systems heading in a backward direction as Michigan's are now," the 36-year-old psychologist said.

Speech All Written
Fox said he had no immediate plans for his future.

He was rebuked by state officials for delivering a congratulatory message to prison inmates shortly before the riot ended last month.

Fox said his controversial message was not delivered directly to inmates, but had been recorded and heard by other prison officials before delivery.

"That was the mutineers' last surrender demand," he said. "The group's leader, Earl Ward, had the speech all written, but I told him I'd write my own and asked him what he wanted to say."

Fox said he forgot about the speech after the riot and went home to catch up on his sleep.

They Handled It
"I was awakened by a phone call from Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks," he said.

Allies Strike Biggest Air Blow In Korea; Suffer Heavy Losses

By JOHN RANDOLPH

SEOUL, Korea — (AP)—The Allies struck the greatest air blow of the Korean war at the Reds Thursday and Friday against a sobering picture of increasing plane losses.

The fifth Air Force tally showed the week ended Friday was one of the worst—if not the worst—air week for the Allies since the war started 23 months ago. On the credit side, the Air Force said U. N. pilots destroyed 460 buildings and damaged 163 in their continuous two-day attack which paralyzed Red industries near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Red Fliers Improve

The weekly plane loss count gave the Communists 12 kills and U. S. airmen four.

For the first time in the war, Communist MIGs grabbed a five-to-four edge in aerial dogfights. The Fifth Air Force announced the loss of three F-86 Sabrejets and two F-84 Thunderjets in the air against only four confirmed MIG kills. It was a sharp reversal from the usual topheavy Allied score.

The other seven U. N. losses were mostly to Red anti-aircraft fire.

The figures didn't take into account Naval plane losses. Rescue flights indicated there were at least two—bringing the loss total to at least 14. Airmen said it all appeared to point to growing Communist skill and power on the air and ground.

Truce Team Has Recess In Korea

By SAM SUMMERLIN

MUNSAN, Korea — (AP)—The Allied Korean war truce team relaxed at travel, horseshoes and volleyball today—and hoped the Reds would ease their unyielding stand on the prisoner issue when negotiations resume Tuesday.

The U. N. delegation proposed a three-day recess Friday and North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Communist delegate, unexpectedly accepted.

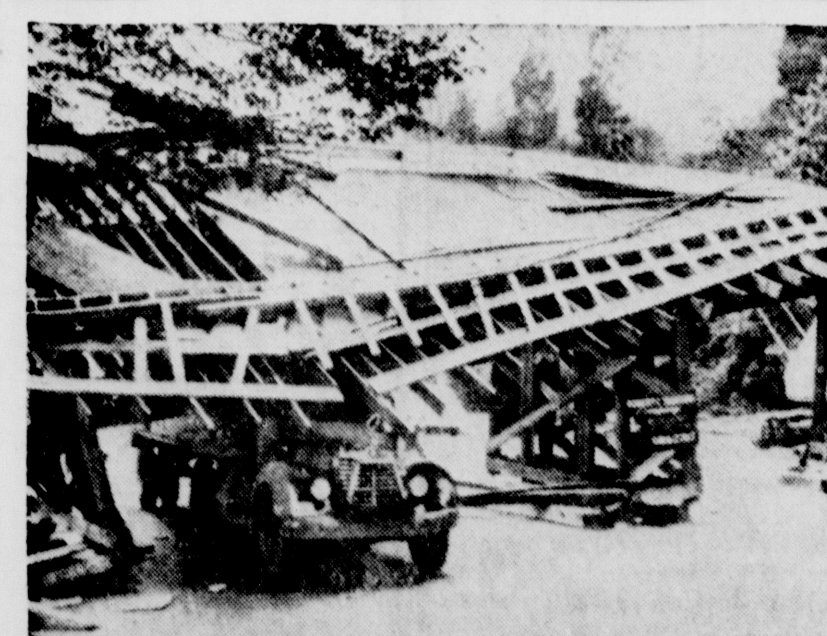

"We hope Nam Il is studying his lessons—reviewing the record since April 28," said Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official Allied spokesman. "If he analyzes it all, maybe he'll come to realize there is no more room for negotiations."

Only member of the five-man Allied negotiation team to remain in Munsan in the recess was Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison, new senior delegate. And he may visit Seoul briefly as part of his other job as deputy Eighth Army commander.

Other U. S. delegates flew to Tokyo. South Korean Gen. Yu Jai Heung went to Seoul.

Horseshoes and volleyball between the "old men" (over 33) and "the boys" on the big staff were on today's schedule.

"Tonight there's a movie with a title out of keeping with the atmosphere of the 10½ month truce talks—'The Love Nest.'"

Revolt Staged By Communist War Prisoners

KOJE ISLAND, Korea—(AP)—News of a third bloody riot by Red prisoners of war on violence-torn Kojé Island came to light today.

South Korean sources said four Korean guards and three North Korean Communist prisoners were killed and 57 Reds wounded in the uprising April 10.

Held Up By Censors

Associated Press Correspondent William Jordan obtained the story from South Korean witnesses almost a week ago but Army censors in Tokyo withheld it until today.

A U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said the Army had announced nothing on the riot "because the Eighth Army investigation of the incident has not been completed." American officials here refused to comment.

Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) indicated in Washington a Senate subcommittee may investigate censorship delay of Jordan's dispatch.

Monroney, a former newspaperman, is a member of the special Senate investigating subcommittee checking into the availability of news under government regulations.

Red Flags Removed

He said the committee "would certainly like to take a look" at the delayed dispatch. He added investigation might show good reason for delaying the story.

Fireman Killed In Detroit Blaze

DETROIT—(AP)—One fireman was killed today and two others seriously injured in fighting a $200,000 fire which destroyed an east side lumber yard milling plant.

Fireman Stanley Thornton died when a fire scorched wall collapsed, showering him with debris.

Two other firemen, George W. DeCaussin, 27, and Nicholas Baublin, 28, suffered critical head injuries.

Fireman Kenneth Gabriel was treated for facial injuries suffered when he was thrown from a ladder when the wall collapsed.

Fire Marshall Edward Hall said the blaze started on the second floor of the three story brick milling plant of the F. M. Sibley Lumber Co. Some 28 pieces of equipment answered the fire alarms. Firemen confined the flames to the milling plant.

The fire was discovered at 2:20 a. m. by two policemen.

The policemen said they saw no flames, but were attracted by "soft pools" as the intense heat blew out second floor windows.

Hall said the fire had been burning for an hour or more and that the walls were weakened more than firemen realized.

Strike Halts Shipping Along Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—

Pacific coast shipping ground to a halt today as the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific began a series of stopwork meetings in protest against shipowners turning down their demands for wage increases and Saturday overtime pay.

A score of ships from the Canadian to the Mexican border, scheduled for departure this weekend, were tied up by the sudden walk-out last yesterday.

The SUP said it would only supply crews for ships carrying military cargoes for Korea.

Old State Road Clean-Up Urged

Following complaints and the signing of a petition directed to Michigan State Police by residents of the Old State Road area, City Safety Director Glen Leonard is recommending a clean-up of rubbish and refuse along Old State Road west of Escanaba.

Leonard reported that in response to the complaints he conducted an investigation and found rubbish strewn along the roadsides. Some of it apparently came from private parties and some fell from city garbage trucks on their way to the city dumping ground.

His recommendation is that the city clean up the roadsides and that city garbage trucks be covered with tarpaulins so that rubbish will not spill out along the road.

Copies of the safety director's report were addressed to the Escanaba city manager and to Michigan State Police. The petition of the property owners and residents was addressed to the State Police, who reported they had received a number of complaints and had observed rubbish spilling from city trucks.

Frank Tebo, Garden School Executive For 41 Years, Dies

Frank G. Tebo, prominent community leader, educator and superintendent of schools in Garden township for 41 years, died yesterday at 3 p. m. in St. Vincent Hospital, Green Bay. He was 67.

Funeral services will be held for the well-loved instructor and students' benefactor Monday morning from St. Patrick's Catholic Church, Green Bay, with Monsignor Henry Head celebrating the Requiem High Mass.

Interment will be made in Fort Howard cemetery in Green Bay.

His career as school head in Garden was interspersed with sponsorship of many projects which aided his students in recreational activities and in their studies.

Befriended Students

To many high school students who found the distance too great in the winter to attend school regularly, he gave the use of his home and free time to enable them to maintain the progress of their school courses.

Shortly before his retirement, he constructed a summer home on 65 acres of woodland on the east shore of the Garden peninsula where many of his students and friends spent their summer vacations and hunting recesses.

For 20 years he managed a peavining station in Green Bay principally to afford summer employment for his Garden students.

With the aid of his high school students he undertook a huge tree planting project in Garden township. For the 10,000 trees planted on state property there, he received a special commendation by state authorities who considered the project to be one of the most successful undertakings of its kind in the state of Michigan.

He received a commendation for his work in cooperation with the selective service program in World War II.

Mrs. Tebo, the former Jane Foote, daughter of Dr. Edward Foote, preceded him in death in 1935. An only child, a daughter, died of accidental asphyxiation while on nursing duties near San Francisco in 1940.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. J. J. Heffernan (Lily); Sister M. of Canice SSND (Marguerite) of Alexandria, Ind.; and Mrs. Mabel Pfeiffer and Miss Flora Tebo, both of Green Bay; and five brothers, Ado Tebo of Richland, Calif.; Wilfred and Lawrence of Milwaukee; Maj. Ben C. Tebo, Washington, D. C.; and Col. John E. Tebo of Green Bay.

The clinic will be operated by the State Health Department with a staff of trained nurses and technicians in charge. Local volunteers recruited by the Red Cross will assist with the blood donors' clinic.

Neighbors Complain As Soprano Practices

NEW YORK.—Demosthenes, the famous Greek orator, went to the seashore when he wanted to exercise his voice, the magistrate said, suggesting Miss Biruta Sneders might try Prospect Park in Brooklyn.

Miss Sneders, a coloratura soprano, did not agree to Magistrate Abner C. Surples' suggestion; but she promised to practice her singing not more than an hour a day and not at all on Sundays.

The 24-year-old singer was brought before the magistrate yesterday on the complaint of two of her neighbors, Mrs. Ada Aubichon and John Carr, a railroad night worker.

Both neighbors said Miss Sneders practiced the scales five hours on weekdays and seven on Sundays.

Mrs. Aubichon said that the singer's harmony had caused her to lose her own voice because of nervousness. Carr said he was unable to sleep during the day because of the noise.

Two Attorneys Hurt In Crash

Four persons, including Attorneys Denis McGinn of Escanaba and F. Earl Lanthier of Gladstone, were injured at 2 p. m. yesterday in an auto accident on US-41 at Michigamme.

None of the four are seriously hurt, although the two attorneys are receiving treatment in St. Francis hospital today.

Atty. McGinn, 415 Odgen Ave., suffered a severely gashed chin but no fractures; while Atty. Lanthier, 817 1/2 Delta Ave., Gladstone, has cuts and bruises.

Others less seriously hurt are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sullivan of 624 South Ninth St., Escanaba, sister and brother-in-law of Atty. McGinn. They suffered shock and bruises.

Atty McGinn was driving on the business trip from Escanaba to Baraga and L'Anse. The accident occurred as they were entering the village of Michigamme on US-41.

A car driven by James E. Moore, 17, of Michigamme, pulled into the highway and began to make a left turn in front of the approaching McGinn auto. Moore told Marquette State Police that he did not see any cars coming.

In an unsuccessful effort to avoid the collision McGinn swerved and his car rolled over three times after hitting the Moore auto. The McGinn car was demolished. Moore suffered a bruised knee and his car was slightly damaged. State police ticketed Moore for operating his car without license plates.

LITTLE LIZ

The biggest problem about your leisure is how to keep other people from using it.

BIRDS AND PEOPLE often do the craziest things. This young sparrow perched on the hood of an automobile in the business district Friday and repeatedly made frantic but futile dashes up the curved windshield, each time sliding down to the hood. The object on the left is the chalk and stick of a city traffic officer who was intrigued by the bird's crazy antics. (Daily Press Photo)

COPPER NUGGETS—This is what students of Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton, will be looking for when they file "claims" and start digging up Houghton's main street (Shelden Avenue) soon. These nuggets were taken from a Houghton street. The mining venture is part of a publicity stunt sponsored by the Copper Country Vacationist league.

Students To Mine Copper On Houghton Main Street

HOUGHTON, Mich.—Thar's copper in Houghton streets and Civil Engineering students of Michigan College of Mining and Technology in cooperation with Houghton merchants and businessmen will mine this copper.

The stunt has been set up through the local Chamber of Commerce upon announcement by Michigan State Highway Department that the main street (Shelden Avenue) is to be resurfaced in the near future. The history of copper mining in Michigan's Copper Country is the longest in the nation and no-where else in the world has copper been found in such pure state or mass quantities.

Mining has been the chief economic force during a 100 years and at one time over 1,000 individual mining claims were filed in the famous Copper Country. Huge stamp mills erected in the area to crush the mined rock to extract the copper for smelting left large piles of crushings known as stamp waste. Stamping and refining methods in the old days were wasteful and copper was redeemed only in larger masses. As the towns grew, this stamp waste was mixed with asphalt and the streets were paved with this compound mixture.

"Grub Stake Miners" But like everything else, the ravages of time took its toll and now the Michigan Highway Department will resurface these old roads with asphalt macadam. Before the new macadam is installed within the next few weeks, Houghton's main street will be surveyed into mining strips. The merchants will issue deeds and claims to students and grub stake these 'miners' with the necessary tools to remove the large chunks of copper which have worked to the surface during the past years. The mining claims are in code so that no miners will do any advance prospecting or "salting."

Supervisory work such as mine superintendents, claim recorders and others, will be in the hands of mining students who have erected

Complacency Could Wreck GOP's Prospects For Election Victory

IN this election year of 1952, the prospects for the first Republican victory in the presidential contest since 1928 are bright, so bright, in fact, that many Republican leaders regard victory as a cinch.

They point to the obvious growing desire for a change, the unpopularity of exceptionally high taxes, the scandals of the Truman Administration. All of these things contribute to the feeling that after 24 long years of drought, the Republicans finally are going to hit a gusher.

This was the feeling too, in 1948 when the pre-election polls indicated a sweeping victory for Governor Dewey. But when the votes were counted on election night, President Truman had pulled the biggest upset in political history.

This could happen again in 1952 if an attitude of complacency prevails in the Republican leadership. The lesson that was learned in 1948 should convince every Republican worker, from the top to the bottom, that 1952 is a year of opportunity but that opportunity can be converted into victory only by an aggressive, determined campaign.

In the first place, a Democratic candidate always has a decided advantage over any Republican presidential nominee. If he can hold the Solid South—and the Democrats seldom experience serious deviation—the Democratic nominee needs only 112 electoral votes in the rest of the country to win the election. The Republican usually must get all of the 266 votes, minimum required for victory, outside of the South.

Then, too, the governmental handouts developed through a long period of Democratic rule are a potent political weapon, no matter who the Democratic nominee may be.

British Labor Party Plays Into Red Hands

THE British Labor party appears to be moving leftward under the influence of the dynamic, irresponsible Aneurin Bevan.

It has now issued a foreign policy statement widely noted as the most forthright in this field the party has made since its 1951 defeat. And this declaration sounds a great deal like Bevan talking.

The party wants immediate four-power talks on the future of Germany. These discussions would probe the possibility of free elections throughout the country.

What would the real effect of this program be?

The plan for a European defense army, already agreed upon by Britain, France and the United States, might be indefinitely delayed. To prevent the signing of this defense pact is, indeed, a prime Russian objective. All Allied energies have been bent the other way—toward getting the plan in motion.

The Labor party proposal would further constrict the whole free European community by raising false hopes of German unity. Does anyone need to be told what a shambles the Russians would make of a unity conference or, if it came to that, a "free election?"

The Germans might, through the period of negotiations, be encouraged to believe they could forget any responsibility for their own defense or that the larger West of which they have lately been endeavoring to become a part. They could be lulled into dreaming again of neutrality.

Sober statesmen of the western world have been aware for a long time that Bevan had a sadly distorted sense of values. But they must read with regret that this kind of thinking is capturing the Labor party as a whole.

Rural Telephone Lines Extended

EXTENSION of telephone service in the Danforth and Flat Rock areas represents an advancement of considerable importance to the residents of that area. This improvement, plus the expansion program contemplated in Cornell this summer, indicates recognition by the telephone company of the essentiality of extending telephone service to areas that have long been denied this convenience.

There are, of course, other areas in Delta County where telephone service either is not available or where the available service is inadequate to meet the needs of the residents of those areas.

The extension of telephone service to outlying areas is a convenience not confined to the people directly being served by this improvement. It is a convenience, too, for telephone subscribers in Escanaba, Wells, Gladstone and surrounding areas and, of course, it is an advancement that is important from an economic standpoint to merchants in Escanaba who thus will be better able to service their customers in the outlying areas.

Good communication facilities are as important as good transportation, good schools and good newspapers.

Friend Harold— Invisible To Naked Eye

A T long last Harold Stassen has conceded that he has no chance for the GOP presidential nomination. He tries to imply that he never really felt he did, but was only concerned with stopping Senator Taft. And he suggests that his activity has been beneficial to the candidacy of General Eisenhower, whom he says he prefers.

Perhaps if you put Stassen's accumulated primary votes under the microscope, you might be able to discern some slight damage done to Taft. Certainly nothing is visible to the naked eye.

As for Eisenhower, it is difficult to see how he has been aided. Stassen opposed Ike alone in Pennsylvania, and cluttered up the opposition picture in New Hampshire, Nebraska, Illinois and now Oregon. Is this friendship?

The truth is, friend Harold is just trying to explain away a bad situation. Not even radar could detect him on the political horizon another time.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Now that Jim McGranery has become attorney general, it might pay him to have his subordinates dust the cobwebs off all the reports sent by other government departments requesting investigation of graft and corruption. He would get some interesting cases from the RFC on Congressman Boykin of Alabama, and the B. and O. Railroad; from the Commerce Department on shipping and sales of tin to China; plus various others.

And if McGranery's subordinates fail to locate all these cases underneath the dust, this columnist will be delighted to help.

As a starter, the new A. G. might look at a case which the Commerce Department sent to the Justice Department months ago involving surplus government tankers, this one featuring Adm. Harold G. Bowen, former chief of naval research who assisted in developing the atom bomb.

Shortly after Bowen retired in 1947, he turned up as a stockholder in the United States Petroleum Carriers, Inc. He bought 250 shares at $2 a share, signed applications to buy four surplus tankers from the government, then sold out for $2.50 a share immediately after the tankers were delivered three months later. In other words, he reaped a fabulous $62,000 profit after investing only $500. His chief contribution was use of his name to wangle tankers from the government.

A similar quick killing was made by another stockholder in the same company, Robert W. Dudley, who, like Bowen, parlayed a $500 investment into a $62,000 profit in three months.

Here is the amazing sequence that led to the get-rich-quick profits by Bowen and Dudley:

THE GREEKS HAD FRIENDS

1. Dudley represented a group of wealthy Greek shipowners who were trying to purchase surplus tankers from the Maritime Commission. The application was turned down Sept. 12, 1947, on the ground that the applicants were not American citizens.

2. Two weeks later the United Petroleum Carriers, Inc., was formed with Dudley and Bowen as stockholders. The only other stockholder was Robert L. Berenson, an intimate of the Greek shipowners, who held 100 shares. The new corporation promptly filed an application for tankers, signed by Admiral Bowen as president.

3. The maritime commission approved the sale of four tankers to Bowen's corporation on Dec. 30, 1947. Exactly one week later, both Bowen and Dudley sold out to the Greek shipowners' friend, Berenson. He, in turn, sold a 48 per cent interest to Sociedad Industrial Maritima Financiera Ariona, a Panamanian corporation owned by the same Greek shippers who had tried to purchase the tankers in the first place, but were turned down.

4. Berenson borrowed the money for this deal from Simpson, Spence and Young, New York fiscal agents, who happen also to represent Berenson's Greek shipowner friends. But what is even more peculiar, Berenson was able to borrow $165,000 without putting up a nickel security.

Thus, just a few weeks after the Greeks had been turned down as purchasers of the tankers, their Panama Corporation turned up with the tankers—thanks to the influence of American friends.

GATHERING DUST

This whole shocking case was investigated by Maritime security officers and submitted to the Justice Department a year ago. And that's exactly where the case lies today, gathering dust on a Justice Department shelf. However, this column has been able to obtain a copy of the Maritime investigators' secret report.

The report identifies the dominant Greek shipowner in the case as Aristoteles S. Onassis, who is Greek by birth, Argentine by naturalization but who lives in luxury in the United States. He does most of his business through South American corporations, which give him the maximum tax benefits.

In case new Attorney General McGranery is unable to locate the report among the cobwebby pigeonholes of his department, here are some important quotes from it:

"Onassis and his foreign affiliates entered the corporate picture on Jan. 7, 1948—after the (Maritime) Commission had approved the sale of the tankers. However, in late November and early December of 1947, United States Petroleum Carriers informed the commission that financial and chartering arrangements had been made for the vessels in the application. These arrangements were apparently made by Onassis. Therefore, it appears probable that Onassis had an undivulged interest in the corporation at the time the commission approved the sale of the tankers."

Frozen Blood, New Braces, Help Ease Victims Of Rare Hemophilia

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—A little boy in Michigan scared the daylights out of his playmates recently by telling them, "My mommy keeps blood in the freezer."

The strange part of his statement was that it was absolutely true. And the wonderful part is that the blood-in-the-freezer is one of two developments which are making life a little more bearable for the nation's hemophiliacs.

Hemophilia is the strange, rare malady which prevents the blood from clotting. In a normal person, blood automatically clots in about 10 minutes. In a hemophiliac, it may take two hours. That is often too late.

When a hemophiliac is injured, a quick transfusion of fresh blood—from a normal person—can induce clotting. But the blood must be fresh; the anti-hemophilia factor in the blood vanishes in from two to four hours after it is donated. Fresh blood is often difficult to locate in emergencies.

But, as of May 1, a new technique of quick frozen blood plasma has been inaugurated by the Blood Transfusion Association, and made available to the Hemophilia Foundation. This quick-freezing retains the anti-hemophilia factor, and such plasma can be stored in freezers for long periods.

That Michigan mother—like other mothers of hemophiliac children—keeps the quick frozen plasma in her freezer for emergencies. A doctor can easily use it for a needed transfusion to stop the bleeding.

This advance was discussed by Dr. Henry H. Jordan, an orthopedic surgeon at New York's Lenox Hill Hospital, who has been working closely with hemophiliacs for two years. It is in Jordan's department that the second development is taking place.

Most persons born with the X-RAYS OF HOPE: Dr. Henry H. Jordan, at the Hemophilia Foundation exhibit at the New York State Medical Association Convention, points to X-rays of his patients. They tell a story of people who couldn't walk, because of hemophilic arthritis, who now can.

disease, if they survive for two or three years, have had hemorrhages in at least one joint. Usually, it is the knee that is affected and this hemophilic arthritis, as it is called, produces such a stiffening that the child is unable to walk.

Previously, nothing much was done for these people. Jordan cites one case of a child who had spent his entire life in a hospital, unable to walk for 11 years. Treatment was difficult, because of the tendency for additional hemorrhages.

Under arrangements made by the Hemophilia Foundation, patients with hemophilic arthritis are now treated at Lenox Hill Hospital. The first step is to straighten the affected limb, and then it is stabilized to prevent any re-buckling of the joint.

This is done by a slow, careful, painless application of casts, notably the Quengel Cast, a hinged affair of plaster of Paris. It is the cast that straightens the limb, and it is a leather-and-steel hand-made brace—costing $150—that keeps it straight.

The brace is fitted with adjustable springs, a arrangement developed by the Army, it was explained by Dr. Jordan at a prize-winning exhibit at the New York State Medical Association Convention in New York. The springs are tense enough to keep the weak joint from giving way again. The whole thing is designed to distribute the pressure, rather than concentrating it in one spot which might cause a fresh hemorrhage.

The rarity of the disease has prevented any great amount of work in the past. But the Hemophilia Foundation has changed that. Jordan cites his own experience as an example. For the first 28 years of his career, he had only two cases of hemophilia; since the Foundation began bringing patients to New York two years ago, he has had 29 cases.

The result is, Jordan says, "the most rewarding experiences of my life." One 15-year-old boy was brought to the hospital. He had hemophilic arthritis in every joint. He couldn't sit, stand or walk.

SELF - EXPRESSION—A note of sanity was recently injected into the don't touch school of thought on the up-bringing of children.

The speaker was Dr. Leonard W. Mayor of New York City, chairman of the National Midcentury Committee for Children and Youth, and his audience was the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Methods of guiding children, says the doctor, have happily changed from the "tight rein" to those making for self-development, self-expression and independence. But he warns that in some homes and schools the pendulum may have swung too far.

While he still believes the new method better than the old, Doctor Mayor continues:

"However, the parent or teacher who allows the child to express himself in a way and to a degree that is objectionable to other children and adults is aiding and abetting a situation in which society may have to deal with in a drastic manner. Every child must learn there are limits."

HARKING BACK—Dr. Mayor's words are the first encouraging note in the free-style, no holds barred, type of personality sparring that has been going on ever since the psychiatrists decided they knew more about a child than anyone else.

Perhaps the recent unhappy sentences of psychiatrists in connection with prison riots has made the world note that appeals to reason, and the use of logic and discussion, are not always effective in putting down rebellion.

Harking back to the "tight rein" period referred to by the good doctor, there was never any misunderstanding on the part of youngsters as to what the "limits" were.

A warning lift of the eyebrow was followed by a lift of the hand or hair brush if the warning was not heeded. Today's parents, under the compulsion to treat children as adults, lift their eyebrows, their voices, and finally their hands—in despair. There are more frustrated parents than frustrated children.

IN SIMPLE TERMS—If we are to understand Dr. Mayor correctly it is perhaps essential that we translate his warning into plainer language.

If parents "aid and abet" Junior in his anti-social behavior, if they ignore his "objectionable" antics, they are partly responsible for "a situation which society may have to deal with in a drastic manner"—in other words the reform school, hoosegow, prison, or clink.

We are not trying to put words in his mouth, but Dr. Mayor in our opinion called for a return to the days when parents were parents rather than members of a debating society.

"Every child must learn that there are limits," says he, and we assume he means the parents must decide when the limit is reached.

TIME OF DECISION—Most young people today and in the past have wanted complete freedom and independence from parental control.

Under the terms of the "self-expression" school of child training, however, parents and everyone else were placed in secondary authority to the child. It was what Junior wanted to do, not what his parents might desire, that was most important.

The call for parents to return to the role of authority, at least in determining the "limits" of anti-social behavior, will find most of them totally unprepared for the task.

They can learn but it will be difficult for them and for the child—who would have been much better off from the beginning if his parents had outlined his responsibilities as well as his privileges.

THE TIGHT REIN—While Dr. Mayor feels the present system of child training is better than the old "tight rein" policy, he is in effect calling for a modified return to at least a "check rein"—which means the policy of no control is out the window.

Recognition of the need for controls indicates that the system of "no reins" is as faulty as the old "tight reins" method. Perhaps out of experience, happy and unhappy, will come a middle road policy of parental behavior that will materially assist the child in learning to become a good citizen, without destroying his spirit and personality.

HOW OUR MEALTIME DRINKS WERE NAMED

Until about 1600 such folks as were not content with water or milk to drink had little else but wine or ale to drink with their meals. The people of Europe generally had not yet learned of tea, coffee, chocolate, or cocoa.

The mild beverage, which now might be called the national drink of England and Ireland, which we spell "tea" and pronounce "tee," was probably the earliest of these to be introduced into England. But, brought by Portuguese traders, it was first called "cha," the name used in Canton, China, where the first leaves came from. But Dutch traders, who shortly began to carry regular supplies to England, learned in Formosa, probably, to call it "te," pronounced "tay"—and "tay" remained the usual pronunciation of "tea" in England for the next hundred and fifty years. In fact, it is more than likely that many of our own American ancestors spoke of the Boston "Tay" Party in 1773, rather than the Boston "Tee" Party.

"Coffee" seems to have been next to be introduced, about 1660. The drink was known in Turkey as "kahveh" (from Arabic "qahwa"), and the early attempts to give this name an English spelling were weird and peculiar. Various writers tried caoua, chaoua ("u" was pronounced like modern "u"), coave, coffa, capha, cauphe, coffey, cophee, coffee, and a dozen others, finally settling upon "coffee."

"Chocolate" was the name given by Spanish explorers to the drink they found in Mexico, made by the natives from the dried and pulverized cacao-nut. But this pleasant beverage, though known to Spaniards early in the sixteenth century, did not become known in England until a hundred and fifty years later.

God: The Giver of Life

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

Jesus defined His work and mission to the world in various ways, and at various times.

He said He had come to seek and to save the lost (Matthew 18:11 and many other passages).

He had come to fulfill the prophecies of Isaiah (Luke 4:16-21). And He had come to bear witness unto truth (John 18:37).

But the one great comprehensive, all-inclusive definition of His mission and redemptive purpose was in the declaration, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10).

In that declaration Jesus specifically contrasted that purpose of God, in His own mission, with the purpose of others to steal and to destroy.

How appalling that contrast is all through the history of mankind! The Bible, as well as all other great books of man's life, reveal how early stealing and destruction began.

The long course of history is one of rapine and bloodshed, but we need not look to the past to realize the depth and extent of stealing and slaughter. Our own age has revealed evil fully as appalling.

The great tragedies and evils of life are sufficiently apparent. What is not so apparent is that these great evils and destruction have their roots in the lesser evils of man, and in the lack of basic morality.

Dishonesty is at the root of crime, even in the hearts and lives of men who are not legally criminal.

The business man who takes unfair advantage of his fellows is weakening the whole fabric of society. The public official, who betrays his trust, and the honor that he ought to possess, would probably scorn to commit murder, or banditry, or to steal in some grosser way.

One can see plainly, however, in revelations of graft and civic corruption how he has been the actual ally of those who have made stealing and destruction their chief purpose.

One of Tolstoi's great short stories is translated into English under the title, "If You Neglect the Lesser Fire, You Cannot Put Out the Great One."

The lesser fire began when neighbors quarreled over the possession of an egg, which one peasant's hen had laid beyond the fence of the other.

Then the fire began to spread, until in the actual firing of the barn of the other by one of the peasants the conflagration spread, and the whole village was destroyed.

That is what is happening in the life surrounding us today. So much of it is wrong in its source, in its very beginnings. The habit of today becomes the gripping evil of tomorrow.

Every newspaper in its daily news reveals in its report of tragedies and accidents the extent of the drink evil, the gambling evil, and the other evils that affect and endanger society—the things that oppose and defy God's life-giving purpose for mankind.

Yet the public attitude is still largely apathetic and ineffective. What the world needs, and what every community needs, is an immense endowment of God's life-giving purpose, as Jesus expressed it, "to give life, and to give it more abundantly."

Business Men and the Marshall Plan: Randall Says E. C. A. 'Turned the Trick'; Raises Question of 'Where to Stop'

(This is the tenth of twelve articles based on a forthcoming Atlantic Monthly Press - Little, Brown & Co. book, "A Creed for Free Enterprise," by Clarence B. Randall, president of Inland Steel Co.)

X—The Business Man and Foreign Policy

The subject upon which the average business man has the least personal background from which to form a working set of opinions that can be contributed effectively to the stream of public thinking in his own community is the whole series of foreign problems in which the United States is involved. And yet this happens to be one of the few subjects upon which he often does express himself, and with violence.

One would hesitate to believe that the articulate quality is exercised in reverse ratio to knowledge and understanding, yet this curious phenomenon seems to point in that direction. Listen in on any railway lounge-car conversation or during any trade-association luncheon and it will be made clear that as a group we know a great deal about the foreign policy of our country. Otherwise, how could we be so universally sure that it is wrong in its entirety?

Yet seldom do we really know what we are talking about, and least of all could we agree as a group upon what the right policy should be. Some would say that we never should have gone into Korea and others that we never should have pulled out. We pretty much are together in wanting resistance offered to communism, but there must be no dollar aid to any nation that is not grateful.

We must not interfere in the internal affairs of other countries, but on the other hand we surely must not give dollar aid except where it will promote free enterprise and block socialism. For a time it was popular to say that instead of dollars we should export our know-how, but when a request is made to borrow an expert for service overseas, his job is so important that he can't be spared. We condemn the wasteful incompetence of the bureaucrats who are spending our tax money on visionary schemes, but when in good faith we are urged to close our own desks temporarily and accept posts of responsibility where we can direct the spending ourselves, we are sure no part of it. When we hear of a competitor doing it we say: "What in the world would he want to go to Greece for?" and add dryly that he never was much good in the business anyway. Or else that he always was a publicity hound.

"Proof of Ignorance" Actually these attitudes are proof of an ignorance, the existence of which we are loath to admit. I ought to know, for I was one of the most ignorant when in 1948 Mr. Paul Hoffman suddenly catapulted me into Paris as the first steel consultant to Mr. Averell Harriman just as he was setting up the E. C. A. staff for the administration of the Marshall Plan. I had happened to hear Gen. Marshall deliver his now famous address at the Harvard Commencement in that year, but it was just another pretty good speech so far as I was concerned, and I went happily along to my class reunion without the slightest awareness that he had said anything which in any way concerned me.

I was neither for nor against the Marshall Plan nor anything else that had to do with foreign policy. My job was in Chicago, and in great confidence I would have been prepared to admit that it was a pretty important one, certainly one I couldn't think of leaving for a public assignment no matter how worthy.

But suddenly there I was, plunged up to my neck in the Marshall Plan. Mr. Harriman didn't know what my job was, but asked me to find out and come back and tell him, a statement that seemed completely preposterous to me at the time, but one which soon began to make sense. How could he know? How could anyone know?

I began to wake up, and to realize that I had the great opportunity of being present when the American government embarked upon a vast project that could destroy our economy if it were not wisely administered, and that if I were unable to make a sound contribution out of my business experience, in analyzing the problem and making specific proposals, I must never again scream at the bureaucrats. So I did try to find out and tell Mr. Harriman what I thought the relationship of the Marshall Plan was to steel.

The deeper I dug and the harder I worked the more humble I became, as I came to grips with the world problem at first hand. Often I wanted to quit because for the life of me I couldn't make up my mind what I ought to advise the bureaucrats to do if they were to let me write the whole ticket.

I came to know too much to be sure any more. When I flew the Atlantic with trepidation for the first time and arrived at the Paris headquarters of E. C. A. just as the plasterers were finishing our temporary offices, I accepted the fact that there was already established by my country a revolutionary policy of breath-taking proportions, and I made up my mind that since it was my dollars that were being spent I would do what I could to prevent waste and make the administration of the plans as efficient as possible. And I have been at that ever since.

When I have felt that mistakes were being made—and there have been many such occasions—I have addressed myself to those in charge and not to the man in the street, because I have never felt that I could contribute to any discussion by walking angrily out of the room.

I have come rather soberly to the conviction, however, that no President of the United States, whether Democrat or Republican, could have failed to take some emergency action in Europe at the close of the war. The risks were too great to hazard the gamble that nothing would come of them.

However one might have hoped and prayed that Russia would live at peace with her neighbors, and above all that she would never launch a direct attack on our country, an overpowering sense of responsibility to future generations would have driven any man to the decision that doubts must be resolved in favor of American security.

Russians at the Atlantic?

A hostile Russia based behind the Elbe would be menace enough, but how could anyone doubt that if Russia should dash to the Atlantic, as the Germans had, she would be a far greater menace? Who could have taken that risk lightly, or who could have lived with his conscience if he had not determined to stop it?

Take steel, that basic commodity in modern warfare. Had Russia swept through the Ruhr, picking up on her way the neighboring steel districts in Holland, Belgium, France and Luxembourg, and neutralizing those of England by her proximity from Channel ports, we would have handed her as much war potential in steel as half of all that we ourselves then possessed, and I for one would have thought that too great a risk to take.

Having kept the Western European steel industry on our side, we outpoint Russia and her satellites more than three to one. When I think of my grandchildren I like it better that way.

And I am also driven, rather soberly, to the conviction that the Marshall plan turned the trick. If so, it was cheap insurance against a new loss in American lives and capital, unwise as may have been some of its policies, and bad as may have been some of its administration in some particulars. I have come to believe that the mere announcement of the program, while it was still only a gleam in Gen. Marshall's eye, was sufficient to snatch Italy back from communism, and if Italy had been saved, and beyond that I refuse to speculate.

If E. C. A. did that much I am sure it was right to try, but, of course, I know it did far more.

It brought hope to the hearts of those within the bleeding, bankrupt, devastated areas that some one would stand at their sides if they would struggle, and, although in the years that have passed some of those men have often tried our patience sorely, as they have the patience of each other, we may be very sure that the astonishing degree of recovery already achieved has caused much grinding of the teeth in the Kremlin.

No honest-minded business man can fail to sense that American security, and that alone is the test, has been advanced in the last five years, and the question now before us is how and where to stop before it comes tragically to pass that this security has been purchased at the cost of permanent impairment of the soundness of our economy. We must weigh that equation objectively as business men and Americans, but to do so we must equip ourselves with understanding of the risks, both those that remain.

Once we adopt the hypothesis that American aid to Europe is justified for no other purpose than to advance American security, much that has been confused in our thinking can be cleared up.

Oil Fields Flooded For More Production

CENTRALIA, Ill.—(AP)—A new twist in oil production from a Southern Illinois field calls for building an artificial water system vast enough to supply a city of 200,000.

The Texas Co., hopes its 25-acre project, to be completed in 1953, will help force 500 million dollars worth of vital oil to the surface of the Lake Centralia field.

The water will be used to provide pressure in recovering oil which otherwise would be left underground after previously used methods were stopped as no longer economical. The Texas Co., says the field's life will be extended 20 years.

Five old-bearing strata underlying 20,000 acres will be flooded. A Texas Co. spokesman estimated it would take 8,650,000,000 gallons of water to fill the space voided by oil and gas since the field's discovery in 1937.

Wheat Test Developed For Use In Storing

RALEIGH, N. C.—A test has been developed to see whether wheat is dry enough to combine or store, says John Curtis, marketing specialist for the North Carolina State College extension service.

To make the test, place a sample of the grain in a small glass bottle with some ammonium chloride, make the bottle airtight by closing securely, and shake the bottle 50 times. If the ammonium chloride becomes damp, the grain is too wet to store safely.

The new method was worked out by Prof. S. T. Dexter of Michigan State College.

The large closet in the right wall provides plenty of storage space for the occupant of this room. And the unbroken areas along the back and left walls make the arrangement of large furniture pieces easy. Bunk beds could be installed in this room if so desired.

Measuring 14'x11'4", the master bedroom reaps the benefits of cross ventilation from one window in the front wall and another in the left wall. There is a large closet in the back wall of the room; the closet opening on the central hallway, just to the left of the door to the master bedroom.

State President Guest At Luncheon And Area Meeting

Mrs. William O. Merrill, president of the Michigan Federation of Women's Clubs was guest at a buffet luncheon given in her honor at the House of Ludington yesterday afternoon. She was accompanied here by Mrs. Harry W. Mertins, district president, and Mrs. Max Williams, state chairman of international relations. Forty club women of Menominee, Gladstone and Escanaba attended the area meeting.

Mrs. John Anthony, president of the Escanaba Club, presided and presented greetings from the hostess club. Mrs. Mertins gave a brief report on the General Federation convention held in Minneapolis.

Mrs. Williams cited a few rules for self-evaluation, stating that if we are to learn to live and work with other people we must first live with ourselves. She urged club women to participate actively in civic affairs and in government. She described her visit to United Nations and her appearance on a Voice of America broadcast.

"The United Nations," she said, "is our one hope for a peaceful world, it is the only place in the world where representatives of all nations sit down together and listen to both sides of important issues."

She asked continued support for the Point-4 program for the underprivileged peoples of the world.

Mrs. Merrill outlined the state program which this year has taken for its motto, "Survey and Action." The leading project is moral rehabilitation of girls, young first-time offenders who need help and guidance and loving care. It is the hope of the federation, she said, to establish one or more homes for this purpose in Michigan and a Girls Town Foundation has been formed to work out the plans for such a cause.

Bernette Schmit, Thomas L. Doran, Hermansville; Wed

HERMANVILLE—Thomas L. Doran, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Doran of Hermansville, claimed Miss Bernette Marie Schmit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. The music of the mass was sung by the Holy Trinity choir. Miss Angela Rivers was the organist.

Immediately following the service, the wedding party traveled to Winona, Minn., where a wedding breakfast was served at the Winona Hotel.

Colors And Lengths Vary At Will

This year's bride can be as formal or as informal as she likes at her own wedding. She can spend a little or a lot, wear a long or short dress. No matter what her choice, American designers have seen to it that she'll look pretty. Junior bride (left) chooses romantic, full-skirted short dress in white cotton lace over pink taffeta. Throat-line is cut to a high V. Formal bride (center) wears lustrous peau d'ange lace backed with white satin. A full skirt trails off into a train; sleeves are short. Pleated net is used for bib and repeated as hip insert. She wears matching elbow-length gloves. Her small admirers wear floor-length dresses in blue tulle trimmed with wide bands of chantilly lace in an apron effect that sweeps to the back in bustle puff. Informal bride (right) picks short lace wedding dress in pale pink with halter-neck and cover-up bolero. This is a dress that need not be packed away in tissue paper when the wedding's over. A very full skirt of net is topped by a lace apron effect; the waist is cinched in with grosgrain ribbon sash in matching pink.

with sweeping train. In 1952, however, the bride may wear a short dress if she likes and still be fashion-right. Tradition no longer forces us to choose one length only.

The formal gown is still the wedding dress that most American brides prefer. But, nevertheless, brides with a practical bent like the ankle-length dress, the street-length dress, the convertible or two-purpose dress.

Usually, these dresses cost less at the outset. They are particularly adaptable to an informal wedding that requires only one bridesmaid. Further, they eliminate the additional expense incurred by the formal bride for a dress to wear to small parties when the wedding's over.

In formal length or short length, the favored fabrics of this year's brides are lace, silk taffeta, nylon tulle or net, organdy and, of course, satin.

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Fashion Editor
NEW YORK—(NEA)—True to tradition, that's the way we think of weddings. But actually, wedding fashions as well as wedding customs change from year to year and sometimes the change is a drastic one, completely upsetting tradition.

Brides, being women, frequently change their minds about the way they want to look on their wedding day. But most brides, for many years now, have picked white in preference to any other shade.

In 1952, however, many junior brides are choosing pastels and are passing up the traditional bridal veil in favor of little caps, sometimes baby caps trimmed in seed pearls. They also show a preference for tiny flowered caps with just a wisp of veiling.

Tradition once dictated that a bride wear a floor-length gown

St. Thomas Parish To View Rectory In Open House

An open house welcoming the people of the parish of St. Thomas the Apostle to inspect the recently completed rectory is planned by the parish priests from 2 to 5 p. m. Sunday in the new building.

The 13-room priests' home is the second of four buildings to be constructed by the parish. The first structure, which will form part of the series of school buildings, is now being used as a chapel.

These two buildings have been erected in 3½ years' time. Yet to be constructed are the school and accompanying student buildings, next on the building schedule, and the church, according to the Rev. Arnold E. Thompson, pastor of the parish.

Fr. Thompson and Fr. Stephen P. Wisneske, assistant pastor, will conduct the visitors on the informal tour of the building.

Attention - Please Note

This week practically all newspapers carried an article, emanating from Washington wherein they predicted that most Independent Stores would raise prices to the customer on some canned vegetables, fruits, and juices.

The bases of their prediction was the fact that O.P.S. was granting higher mark-ups on these products. This is far from the truth — We have no intentions of raising any prices on any canned food items, unless there is a drastic increase in the market price. In fact, on most items of canned goods, we have already been offering them to the housewife at a lower figure than was allowed by O.P.S.

We emphatically state that our prices on canned goods of all descriptions will not be affected in any way by the O.P.S. order granting us greater margins of profit on these commodities.

Donna M. Wood, Donald Lemke Exchange Vows

A gown of white embroidered organdy over taffeta was worn by Miss Donna Marie Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blomberg, 819 Washington Ave. for her marriage this afternoon to Donald Edward Lemke.

The service was solemnized at 2 at Salem Ev. Lutheran Church by the Rev. Theophil Hoffmann of Gladstone before an altar decorated with snapdragons, peonies and gladioli. Miss Irma Paul was organist and Ralph Ottensman sang "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Completing the bride's costume was a fingertip veil of illusion gathered to a coronet of pearlized orange blossoms. A pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, was her only jewelry. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations, snapdragons and red roses with satin knotted shower ribbons.

Miss Lois Lemke as maid of honor, wore powder blue with a double layer of silk net over taffeta. Her matching headpiece was of braided silk net. She carried a bouquet of delicate pink carnations and pink snapdragons. Bonnie Moersch, the flower girl, wore yellow embroidered organdy and carried a miniature colonial bouquet of pastel shaded snapdragons. David Moersch, who carried the rings on a white satin pillow, was in a white linen suit.

The bridegroom, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Lemke, 1513 2nd Ave. S., was attended by Arnold L. Dahlin. Ushers were Clarence Dahlin and Donald Meunier.

Mrs. Blomberg wore a blue print with white accessories for the wedding and Mrs. Lemke's ensemble was powder blue with pink and white accessories. The mothers' corsages were pink roses.

A reception at the bride's home followed the ceremony.

The newlyweds after a wedding trip through Wisconsin and Illinois will live at 1412 2nd Ave. S. Both young people are graduates of Escanaba High School.

IN the contest for happiness it's a draw between the young girl with her first beau, and the young mother with her first baby. And confidentially, Mom, Morrison's Shop have just unpacked a complete line of the most adorable frocks you've ever seen. Ined Nannette Babe and Toddler gresses are summer sheers and cottons. Cinderellas age 3 to 14 in washable Everglaze fit any occasion! There are three piece dresses too! The Bonnie Blair pre-teens feature jacketed sun dresses with swing skirt. It's Morrison's Mom! Hurry!

DO you want to take a Mediterranean cruise this summer but have neither the time nor the money? Top replacement for this wish is the picture showing Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the picturesque Costa Brava, north of Barcelona, Spain, natural backgrounds in Technicolor for that luscious M-C-M beauty, Ava Gardner. The "20th century Venus" plays the part of Pandora in "Pandora and the Flying Dutchman." With James Mason, co-star, they enact the story of an American girl who is spellbound by a mysterious Dutch painter. Don't miss this exciting week-end treat at the Michigan Theater!

THEY say that the only money that goes far today is a coin rolling under the bed! I disagree though after stepping at Eden's Gift Shop and discovering all those lovely miniature collector's items. Beautiful in natural color, these Hagen-Renaker pieces run the full range of individuality. Most of the items are family sets with either "Mama and Papa and Baby" or "Mama and Baby." They include families of frogs, turtles, bears, raccoons, chickens, deer, fox, birds, dogs and cats. Sizes vary from ½ inch to 1½ inches and in price from 15c to 90c. Collect those rolling coins and shop at Eden's!

MANY people are puzzled how to keep appearance up and expenses down. However, if you want to be "Top Banana" in your crowd, take home one of the new "Top Banana" relom washables from Gartner's. It has that St. George's star mark in the new Eleeda fabric. The diagonal button front closing is smart and new and the wide "V" neckline accentuates the cool gavelty of this frock. Gingham piped it creates an entirely new style and comes in all the loveliest summer colors in sizes 10 to 18. For that new and distinctly different summer washable visit Gartner's today! Keep expenses down and appearances up!

EVERY man thinks himself able to advise others. It is much easier to see what ought to be done than to do it. But if I were you, I'd hurry to shop for "Personalized Scotch" tape at the Office Service Company. It's ideal for marking packages, for APO addresses, for books and small articles that have a habit of disappearing. It's just the thing for marking personal belongings. Order it at the Office Service Company. There are over 300 labels on each roll for only $2, and comes in white, orange, green, red, silver, yellow or blue background. Drop in at Office Service today!

IF you want work well done they say you must select a busy man to do it. The other kind has no time. Call the Escanaba Steam Laundry today for that kind of cleaning that's guaranteed to be tops in all departments. They're busy of course, but how else can one judge a good cleaner? Good business is a promise that they will do the kind of work you'll want to tell your friends about. And if you're pressed for time, try their pressing! Call the Escanaba Steam Laundry now for cleaning and pressing 'as you like it'.

MANY can rise to the occasion but few know when to sit down! You will know when to sit down if you hurry to Bonfield Furniture Store where I found an incredible new Kroehler cushioned, two piece living room ensemble. The new material is 100% Nylon Boucle and is called the new wonder fabric. It's resistant to wear, moths, fading, water, mildew and "Father's protests." It comes in a soft cocoa brown, grey, red or green. This Spring Special will be featured for a limited time only so hurry to Bonfield's before the supply is gone.

Munn Defends College Sports

While admitting certain evils have invaded competitive collegiate sports, Coach Biggie Munn, of Michigan State College, ardently defended college sports programs in a talk Thursday evening at a Twilight League dinner at the Indian Lake Country Club building.

Speaking to members of the golf club and the Schoolcraft County Sportsmen's Club, Michigan State's famous coach asserted that action to correct such evils are already underway, and stated that boys who participate in the sports programs, particularly in football, represent the "cream of the crop." He cited the high scholastic records maintained by many of Michigan State's best gridgers during the past few years as indicating that competitive games attract the highest type students.

He said his greatest thrill as a coach was experienced last year when he was requested to handle the offensive coaching job for the East in the annual East-West benefit football game.

All game proceeds were earmarked for the care and treatment of crippled children, he pointed out, and it was sheer pleasure to see those football boys and officials voluntarily giving up their Christmas vacations to assist in this great cause. He described the contest as an event where "strong legs ran so that weak legs could walk" in paying tribute to the college gridgers on both sides who participated.

Touching briefly on prospects of Michigan State next fall, Coach Munn said he was losing his entire line and his quarterback. "But keep your eye on Michigan State next season," he said. Following his talk Coach Munn officiated at the showing of two motion pictures.

Danny Devine, freshman coach at Michigan State, accompanied Munn to the meeting. Both were introduced by R. G. Hentschell, president of the Indian Lake Country Club.

Religious Jury Trial To Feature Adventist Meeting Here Sunday

A jury trial will be featured as a portion of the regular meeting at the new Seventh Day Adventist church at 8 p. m., Sunday evening.

The Rev. Alonzo R. Mohr, of Escanaba, acting as prosecuting attorney for the hypothetical case of the Saints vs. Mr. X, will attempt to prove from the Bible that Mr. X, is guilty of changing a very important marker on the highway to heaven.

The jury for the evening will be chosen from among volunteers in the audience, according to the Rev. Reo Clyde, local pastor.

Miss Carol Jean Erickson and Beth Parker, both of Escanaba, will present vocal selections as a part of the evening worship.

Pastor Clyde will direct the congregational singing. The accompanist for all numbers will be Mrs. A. R. Mohr of Escanaba.

Manistique Is Host To Rapid River On Sunday

MANISTIQUE — The 1952 Manistique Cardinals will make their homestand debut at 2 p. m. Sunday against the Rapid River nine. The game will be played at the fairgrounds diamond.

Don Carlson, who hurled six innings of one-hit ball against Garden last Sunday afternoon, will again be on the hill for the Cards, with either Makinen or Klagstad receiving.

The services of pitcher Tad Demars has been lost indefinitely because of a pulled shoulder muscle. Manager Fred Lesica will be available for relief duty if Carlson finds himself in trouble.

Other starters will be Demars, 1b; Hussey, 2b; H. Weber, ss; Frederickson, 3b, and Larson, Theut and Archey in the outfield. Ekdahl, Henry, R. Weber, Corson, MacLean, Schuster and LaFollette also are expected to get into action.

On Memorial Day the Cards will meet Curtis in an exhibition game here at 2:30 p. m.

Manager Leo Knauf's Bark River club entertains Hermansville tomorrow afternoon in one of the feature attractions of the Tri County baseball league.

Bark River got off to a fast start with a 2-1 win over the Escanaba Bears, defending champs, last week in the opener and will be shooting for its second straight.

Joe Rademacher will be on the mound for Bark River and the youth movement started last week will continue. Younger players added to the squad include Dave Kwarciany, Ken Tousignant, Jim Greenwood and Ken Heim of the high school. Manager Knauf also announced that Don Paulin, Bear first baseman, has been signed to the Bark River roster.

He will be eligible to play after sitting on the bench two weeks. Hermansville will use either Steve Machalk or Ernie Massignon on the hill. Massignon was the loser against Felch in the opener last Sunday. There is a possibility that Mel Sandrin may be with the club, Manager Glen Fleetwood said today.

Other Hermansville standbys include Leno Pieropon, George Maule, Reno Fochesato, Al Fazer and the Ranier brothers. Escanaba takes its first road trip to Wilson. Manager Jack Beck has named Ray Menard as starting pitcher with Red Kreig in reserve. All other regulars will be on hand with the exception of Jim Nyquist, catcher. Dale Wood will do the backstoppping.

Stephenson will be seeking its second straight win at Daggett, Felch is at home to Perronville, Wallace entertains Foster City in the remaining league games.

Bill Rodman, St. Joe Trojan righthander, had his best day on the mound against Gladstone here Thursday afternoon. A junior who took the starting mound job for St. Joe for the first time this season, Rodman completely baffled Coach Cappy Keil's Braves with his slow "stuff". While retiring the side in order in the fourth and fifth innings, Rodman fanned seven men in a row. He got the extra whiff on the last man in the third. Rodman had trouble with control in previous games but Thursday he didn't issue a single walk.

Incidentally, Trojan baseball prospects seem good. There were only two seniors on the field when the St. Joe team handed Gladstone its first loss of the season. Coach Tom St. Germain will lose only Pete Kutches and Bill Baker from this year's squad. The rest of the players range from freshmen to juniors.

Hardly noticed in the Spring sports schedule that leans heavily to baseball and track, the Escanaba High School golf team this week added another record to the Eskymo honor book. Coach Jack Magnusen's linksmen walked off with Class B honors in the Upper Peninsula finals match at Ishpeming. The Eskymos wrestled the U. P. crown from Iron Mountain, defending champion. That decision, by the way, broke a deadlock between the schools this season. The two teams had played to 7½-7½ ties on two previous occasions. The golf crown won by Al Martin, Jack Smith, Bill LeMire and Bob Hermans is the first for Escanaba golfers.

Threat Of Rain For Time Trials

INDIANAPOLIS—(AP)—Sixty race car owners and their drivers watched the sky with crossed fingers today and hoped the promised showers would hold off.

Today and tomorrow were the last scheduled qualification days for the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway May 30. Only seven of the 33 places in the starting lineup were filled last weekend, and three score unqualified cars were on the grounds.

Some of them never will attempt a qualifying run, for various reasons, but the weekend still could be the busiest in the 44-year history of the track.

One car, the Parks Offy Special, driven by Doc Shanbrook of Gary, Ind., probably is out of the race because of lack of time to replace an engine which tore itself up Friday.

Chief Steward Tommy Milton of Detroit said that no matter how much the weather may shorten the time trials, only one car will be permitted to qualify at one time. Milton said the 26 cars needed to fill the field can make their 10-mile runs in less than three hours. He added, "multiple qualifying would be too dangerous—too many are driving over their heads."

If the starting field is not filled by tomorrow, additional qualifications could be set for the early part of the week. The track is closed the day before the race for cleaning.

Bratton Wins Split Nod Over Flanagan

NEW YORK—(AP)—Next in line for Johnny Bratton, a split decision winner over Del Flanagan, is a June 18 return bout with Rocky Castellani at Chicago.

Hymie Wallman, Bratton's manager, revealed the Chicago date after last night's Madison Square Garden nod over Flanagan. The heavier Castellani, a legitimate middleweight, upset Bratton March 28 at the Garden.

If Bratton gets past Castellani without damage to his fragile hands and jaw, the sleek Chicago Negro is ticketed to go into Montreal July 7, to fight Laurent Dauthuille.

Turner vs. Champ
All this busy program leaves little time for Bratton, former N. B. A. welter champ and No. 2 contender, to pursue the current champ, Kid Gavilan. But there's a good reason for it.

Sitting alongside Bratton in his dressing room after the fight was young Gil Turner, unbeaten Philadelphia whiz, saying: "I got him, Johnny. I got him."

"Him" was Gavilan. Any day now they will announce formally that Gavilan and Turner have been matched for a July 7 Philadelphia title bout, the day before the baseball all-star game to be played at Shibe park.

"I want the champ," said Bratton. "But this guy (Turner) is going to get him."

Split Vote

Then Bratton turned his attention to Flanagan who got the vote of Referee Al Berle 5-4-1 while Bratton was named winner by both judges. Judge Bert Grant had Bratton on top 6-4. Judge Joe Agnello saw it 5-5 but gave it to Bratton on points, 7-5. The AP card had it 6-4 in favor of Bratton.

Bratton floored Flanagan for a nine-count in the sixth with a right to the jaw. He drove home another right to the body as Del crumpled and started to go. He was stretched flat but managed to beat the count.

The customers weren't talking much Flanagan or Bratton last night. Only 3,031 paid $8.373 with the Giants running a counter attraction at the Polo Grounds. It was really a television studio show, beamed across the nation. Bratton weighed 147, Flanagan 145½.

Blues Take Lead In Association

(By The Associated Press)

The Kansas City Blues, splitting a doubleheader with St. Paul, regained the American Association lead Friday night as Milwaukee dropped to second, a full game behind, by losing to Minneapolis 4-2.

The Saints quelled Kansas City threats in the final two frames of the opener and called on Al Epperly to put out the fire in the final round to edge the Blues 4-3. The Blues grabbed a 9-2 win in the nightcap.

Daryl Spencer lifted a double into the fog-shrouded outfield at Milwaukee to push home two runs in the seventh inning and provide the Millers with a 4-2 decision.

Louisville fortified its third spot with a 2-1 margin over Columbus in 14 innings.

Indianapolis' doubleheader at Toledo was rained out.

Sport Shorties

In Duke University's first 14 basketball games this season, Bernie Janicki scored 212 points and made the same number of rebounds.

Michigan And Illinois Vie For Baseball Title

CHICAGO — (AP)—Illinois will throw its two top pitchers—Jerry Smith and Clive Follmer—against Iowa at Champaign today, shooting for a doubleheader sweep to keep its chances alive to beat out Michigan for the Big Ten baseball pennant.

After losing 5-1 to Minnesota yesterday while Michigan's game at Northwestern was cancelled by rain, the Illini need to take a pair from the Hawkeyes in the season finale while Michigan at best splits a doubleheader at Wisconsin. This would be the only way Illinois could win the title, discounting cancellations by weather.

If both Michigan and Illinois halve their twin bills, they will wind up as co-champions, the former with 8-4 for .667 and the latter with 10-5 for .667.

Michigan will win if both sweep their doubleheaders. In this case the Wolverines would post 9-3 for

Wisconsin Edges Spartans 5 To 4

MADISON, Wis. — (AP) — A three-run eighth inning gave Wisconsin a 5-4 Big Ten baseball victory over Michigan State yesterday.

The Spartans had scored three runs in the sixth on an infield hit, an error and two doubles. After adding a run in the seventh, MSC led 4-2.

But the Badgers tied it up on a two-run homer and won the game when Tom Cooper singled and Gust Vergetis tripled him home.

Bubba Church Traded By Phillies For Wyrostek

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies have Johnny Wyrostek back in their outfield today but it cost them 15-game winner Emory (Bubba) Church to be traded away four years ago.

Wyrostek and minor league pitcher Kent Peterson came to the Phillies in a deal completed yesterday that sent the right handed pitching Church to the Cincinnati Reds. Peterson is being sent to an as yet unidentified Phillies farm team, probably Baltimore in the International League.

The Phillies traded Wyrostek to Cincinnati for shortstop Eddie Miller in the winter of 1948. Owner Bob Carpenter and Manager Eddie Sawyer, tried all last winter to pry Wyrostek from the Reds but were unsuccessful. They finally gave up.

Wednesday, Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager, contacted Carpenter. He needed a pitcher. Carpenter renewed his request for Wyrostek. Twenty-four hours later the two clubs had a deal.

"I'm going to switch Del Ennis from right to left field and put Wyrostek in right," Sawyer said. Church, who had been reported in Manager Sawyer's "doghouse" ever since the 1952 season began,

City Of Denver Is Crazy For Baseball

DENVER—(AP)—As a baseball-wacky community, Denver seems to be picking up where it left off last season when it was second only to Seattle for attracting minor league baseball crowds.

When the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians played a two-game midweek series in Denver Bears Stadium recently, 36,233 fans paid their way into the park. The same teams drew a little more than 31,000 to a weekend series at Los Angeles.

Weekend Doubleheaders Feature Softball Slate

Two Class A doubleheaders at Memorial Field over the weekend inaugurate the exhibition season on the local softball front. Tonight's twin bill will feature the strong Badger Mills club of Peshigo and tomorrow evening's finale will have Mehrman Plumbers of Marquette in the spotlight.

Tonight's program opens at 7 o'clock when Power and Light takes the field against the Dells.

Harnischfeger will provide the opposition for Peshigo in the second game at 8:45.

Power and Light will be in action again tomorrow night in the preliminary, this time against the Paper Mill. The Dells will be hosts to the visiting Plumbers of Marquette in the main game Sunday at 8:45 p. m.

In local softball activity next week, the Oldtimers League will play practice games but the National circuit will swing into its first round of official play.

Best bets for bang-up softball are Tuesday's doubleheader and Thursday night's triple bill. The big game Tuesday will find the undefeated White Birch nine in a real test against the Paper Mill.

Thursday night's final game brings together the newly-organized Dells and the heavily-favored Harnischfeger powerhouse. Playing for the Dells will be Bobby Anderson, Ed Gauthier, Barney Millette, Mickey Kuchenberg, Bobby Boyle, Kippy Derouin, Ken Olivet helped found the league 50 years ago but dropped out in 1940 when it was unable to field a football team.

Performing for the Harnies will be Phil Brazeau, John Pierpon, Tom St. Germain, "Scoops" MacDonald, Charley Camps, Ed Paquette, Dale Wood, Joe Ricci, Eob Dufour, Marc Olson, Chuck Fortier and Ray Wahowiak.

The complete schedule follows:

Ankle Cast To Be Taken Off

NEW YORK — (AP) — Monte Irvin, slugging New York Giant outfielder, will know next Monday if his right ankle has mended sufficiently to let him play this season.

"I feel great. I think it's going to be OK," he said.

Next Monday the cast comes off and doctors can tell if the broken bone has set properly.

Irvin saw his first game of the regular season last night when the Giants beat the Braves. Despite the dire predictions when Irvin was injured, the Giants are in the thick of the National league race without his services.

"I hope to be playing by mid-July or early August," he said. "My weight is down. I'm watching it by dieting."

Irvin's right foot is now in a big white plaster cast, but he walks easily, using a steel heel that protects his foot.

"I sure hope I can make the team," he said as he watched the Giants with evident pride.

Rain Halts Play In Huge Golf Tourney

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(AP)—The delayed second round of the $20,000 Colonial National Invitation Golf tournament moves out this afternoon if the course is considered playable.

Tournament officials are quite anxious about it—and so are the golfers, particularly Raymond Gafford, Dallas pro, and Joe Conrad, San Antonio amateur, who are leading the field with two-under par 68's.

A gully-washer of a rain halted play yesterday, causing tournament officials to reschedule the second round for today and to add a round onto tomorrow. If they can't play today the second and third rounds likely will be carried into tomorrow with the final 18 holes Monday. Beyond that, the tournament officials don't know what they'll do.

Pretty Wet

The 7,035-yard Colonial Country Club course had water all over it within an hour after the driving rain set in. Even if there is no rain today the greens are going to be in bad shape. All in all they're likely to lose money on the tournament regardless.

Carrying over to tomorrow would present some difficulties. Some of the 42 golfers in the tournament have said they couldn't remain over an extra day but it was believed most of them would do so if the tourney had to be extended. There is a rich prize list in this tournament, upped from $15,000 to $20,000 the day before it opened.

Harvey Raynor, PGA tournament supervisor, had said the tournament can be carried over through Monday.

Old Story
In 1947 the golf meet, then in its second year, had the second round washed out and had to double up on Sunday. There were 29 players that year, however. In 1949 the entire tournament had to be cancelled out because of a flood.

Moving into the second round, whenever it may be played, Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., will be one stroke back of the leaders. At 70 are Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., and Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., while alone at 71 is Jerry Barber of Pasadena, Calif.

Six players have 72. They are Cary Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., the defending champion; Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, Fred Haas of New Orleans, Bob Toski of Northampton, Mass., Jimmy Thomson of New York and Al Besselin of Chicago.

Campanella Gets Two Homers

Dodgers Whip Phils 5 To 1

By RALPH RODEN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Brooklyn Dodgers got along without Roy Campanella but all hands are glad the husky catcher is back in action even if he isn't exactly shipshape.

"My hand still hurts a little when I catch," Campanella said today, "but I can swing a bat."

That's the understatement of the year. Dutch Hiller of Cincinnati and Karl Drews of Philadelphia can sadly testify that the National League's most valuable player of 1951 has lost none of his power due to his en-

Roy Campanella Is Hurt Again

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Roy Campanella, the husky Brooklyn Dodger catcher, seems to get hurt more often than his share—but when he's in that lineup watch those opposing fielders move back.

The big fellow ruined the Philadelphia Phillies last night by slapping out two home runs in successive times at bat and driving in all the runs in a 5-1 Dodger victory. But in the process Campanella was hurt for the second time in recent weeks.

Roy Campanella

After the game he disclosed he had jammed his right thumb in a play at the plate and also had suffered a minor spike wound on the big toe of his left foot. The finger was wrapped in bandages and Brooklyn trainer Dr. Harry Wendler was unable to say if Campy will play in tonight's game against the Phils.

Last year's most valuable National leaguer, Campanella was hurt in another home plate action in Chicago on the Dodgers' recent western swing. He suffered a bruise on the back of his left hand and missed three games.

Last night in his first time at bat the big catcher lifted one of Karl Drews' offerings high into the upper left field grandstand for the Dodgers' first score. In his last time at bat, Thursday, against the Cincinnati Reds, Campanella had also homered.

Dodger manager Chuck Dressen was disturbed about his catcher's numerous injuries. "Roy's too polite. He doesn't tag hard enough. If he did maybe other guys wouldn't try to rough him up so much."

Campanella has been bumped in a couple of other plays this season and also during spring training. When the Dodgers were trying to hold their lead at the end of last season Campanella was hurt and forced to the sidelines.

forced absence.

Bruised Hand

Campanella sat out three games because of a bruised left hand. He returned to action Thursday and rocked Hiller for a three-run homer.

The ace receiver continued his destructive work last night against Drews and the Phils. He drove in all of Brooklyn's runs in a 5-1 victory with a pair of home runs.

Campanella clouted the 100th of his career with the bases empty in the second inning and followed up with a game-winning grand-slam blast in the third to insure the Dodgers' seventh straight triumph.

Ben Wade, 29-year-old rookie right-hander, went all the way for Brooklyn and spaced nine hits to hang up his third triumph.

The victory also enabled the Dodgers to protect their half game lead over the runner-up New York Giants. Sal Maglie recorded his eighth victory without a loss for the Giants as he turned back the Boston Braves, 5-3.

Dark Homers

Maglie staggered a bit in the first three innings and in the ninth but from the fourth to the last frame he allowed only one hit.

The Giants scored all of their runs in the fourth inning against hefty Max Surkont. They collected five of their seven hits in that frame. A two-run homer by Al Dark climaxed the uprising and provided the Giants with their margin of victory.

Maglie permitted eight hits, including three in the first three innings and three in the ninth. Ebba St. Claire cracked a two-run homer in the ninth.

Veteran Ken Raffensberger, supported by youngsters Wally Post and Roy McMillan, gained his third victory of the season over St. Louis as Cincinnati shaded the Red Birds, 2-1. Post and McMillan homered off Harry Breechen to account for Cincinnati's runs.

The last place Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Chicago Cubs, 6-5, in 13 innings to snap an eight-game losing streak. Gus Bell and Johnny Merson doubled back to back with one out in the 13th to break up the game. Ted Wilks was the winner and Warren Hacker the loser.

All American League games also were played at night. The pace-setting Cleveland Indians downed the Browns, 6-3, in St. Louis and the Detroit Tigers swamped the Chicago White Sox, 9-2. The other clubs were idle.

Big Mike Garcia, with help in the eighth from Bob Lemon, chalked up his sixth victory for Cleveland. Garcia blanked the Browns on two hits until the eighth when he weakened and allowed two hits and three walks. Lemon took over with the bases loaded and doused the fire. The Indians whacked Ned Garver for eight hits including four doubles, a triple and Al Rosen's ninth homer of the season.

The Tigers pounded former teammates Saul Rogovin and Lou Kretlow for 14 safeties at Chicago.

Tigers Get Pitching And Batting To Beat Sox 9-2

CHICAGO — (AP)—Both Detroit General Manager Charley Gehring and Manager Red Rolfe have placed the blame for the Bengal poor showing thus far in the 1952 season on the failure of the Tiger batters to hit.

The Tiger pitching staff generally has been credited by both with excellent performance.

But Rolfe and Gehring claim it takes a combination of pitching and hitting to produce a winning team.

Last night, Detroit got both—when they tagging the sixth place White Sox here with a one sided 9-2 loss.

Bengal batters racked up a total of 14 hits—their highest to date — to give Ted Gray his third win of the year.

Johnny Lipon paced Tiger hitters with two big hits which drove five runs across the plate.

One, a booming double to left with the bases loaded in the sixth inning, highlighted a four run Tiger uprising.

The five runs driven in last night equalled the Tiger short-stop's total for the 27 preceding games this season.

A crowd of 16,524 fans watched the Tigers jump on White Sox starter Paul Rogovin for six runs in the first six innings. Rogovin gave way to Lou Kretlow in the eighth following another three run outburst by Tiger batters.

Rogovin was charged with his third loss as against three wins.

Gray Effective

Gray gave up seven hits. He allowed only one, a single in the ninth inning—in the last five innings.

George Kell started off the big Tiger sixth with a line drive single off Rogovin. After Johnny Groth fouled out, Joe Ginsberg belted another single off Rogovin's glove. Kell went to third and Ginsberg took second when Nellie Fox, attempting to get Ginsberg out at first, threw wildly into the Tiger dugout. Gerry Priddy was intentionally passed to fill the bases, and Lipon smashed his double to score three runs.

Lipon drove in Ginsberg after the Tiger catcher and Priddy singled to open the eighth, with a sharp single off Rogovin. Don Kolloway greeted Kretlow who replaced Rogovin with another single scoring Priddy and Lipon.

Art Houtteman (3-5) will oppose Joe Dobson (5-2) in the second game of the series today.

Harbor Project Is Completed

A project to improve the small craft harbor at the foot of Tenth street is now being completed.

Piling was driven along the north end of the harbor and the section sheeted so fill could be placed behind. It was then decked and the fill behind it covered with topsoil so it could be seeded for grass. A walk was also constructed along the full eastern edge, joining the new dock in front of the Yacht club.

Boat wells for power craft also have been constructed along the north edge of the harbor.

This project was carried out co-operatively by the city and the Yacht club.

The city also has been putting in fill at the breakwater and workmen have been cleaning up the beach in preparation for the bathing season.

The level of the bay is at one of the highest points in history.

Storm Hits Kalamazoo Area

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—(P)—A flash-flood storm with winds of near cyclonic force left a trail of destruction in the Kalamazoo area today.

The storm which broke yesterday afternoon began abating at noon today but skies were still overcast. It was one of the worst storms ever to strike here.

Heavy winds created havoc in the Oakland suburban district and Portage township area south and southwest of Kalamazoo. A bolt of lightning fired the home of H. F. Bouman in Portage township. The house was destroyed.

The wind flattened a large barn on the Colony farm of the Kalamazoo state hospital. Five men who had been working in the fields with a tractor took shelter in the barn just before it collapsed. William Gude, a state hospital employee, and four patients, were trapped in the wreckage of the barn but they crawled out unhurt. The barn was valued at $7,000.

The Kalamazoo area has had a total of 3.33 inches of rain this week, including 1.35 inches that fell in a half hour period between 3 and 4 p. m. yesterday.

The heavy rains flooded streets here and washed out numerous county roads. Ten or 12 county roads were temporarily blocked yesterday afternoon.

Electric power and telephone service was disrupted in some neighborhoods. Consumers Power Co. and Michigan Bell Telephone Co. had trouble shooters out today repairing the damage.

resignation. The Federation, for all its quiet union strength and discipline and its long-standing record of achievement in legislative halls, has never seemed half as influential in Williams' administration as the noisy and assertive CIO.

May Be Wooded Back

There has been a CIO member at Williams' elbow since he got the first returns from Pointe Aux Barques three and a half years ago. Fair, representing the Federation, joined Williams staff early in his first year, but resigned a year ago or more and there has been no Federation man on the payroll since.

These, and a lot of other little things, have made observers wonder if the Federation is still on good terms with Williams.

But Federation insiders say the bulk of their membership will be with the governor this year as before—with the possible exception of Hoffa's teamsters.

The teamsters are a mighty potent political force to lose. You may be sure there will be overtures—and maybe even a price paid—to bring Hoffa back before November.

Detroit Policeman Kills Himself Over Licensing Scandal

DETROIT—(P)—A Detroit policeman killed himself to avoid the disgrace of discovery in an auto license scandal here, investigators reported today.

Patrolman Max D. Frame was found shot to death in his car on a road near Ann Arbor March 26.

Deputy Police Supt. Kennedy Lawrence said Frame killed himself just before he was to be questioned about improper issuance of driver's licenses through the secretary of state's branch office here.

Permits Confiscated

Lawrence disclosed the reason for Frame's death as a four-member commission was appointed to check every driver's license issued in Detroit in the past three years.

Lawrence said that three policemen, Sgt. Sinclair Davis and Patrolman Albert Krimmel, who are suspended, and Frame, had issued more than 1,000 licenses to persons who could not qualify for them through the regular tests. Police have confiscated 300 licenses and are seeking the rest.

Lawrence said the officers operated independently. He said the operation of Frame and Krimmel were turned up by an investigation of charges against Sgt. Davis.

Davis was accused late in February when clerks in Lansing turned up a license application which he had signed but which they said had not been properly issued. He and two men were arrested and taken to recorder's court. Judge Gerald W. Groat is seeking to determine whether they should be held for trial.

Paid $10 Extra

A warrant charging Andrew Abdulla, a die setter, and Dave Davis (no relation to Sgt. Davis), a hardware dealer, with conspiring with Frame in selling licenses was issued by the prosecutor.

Lawrence said that Dave Davis and Abdulla brought friends and co-workers, many of them displaced persons recently over from Europe, to Frame, who made out the licenses. For this, Lawrence said, Frame charged the regular $12.50 fee, which went to the secretary of state, plus $10.

Dave Davis and Abdulla pleaded innocent in recorder's court to the conspiracy charge and were freed on $1,000 bond each for examination June 6.

Technical assistance for the Far East was trimmed 50 per cent. The program had included 115 million for India, 33½ million for Pakistan, 18 million for Burma and eight million for Indochina.

Reckless Driver Is Fined $15 And Costs

George Rogers, 17, of 211 North 19th St., yesterday pleaded guilty in Justice Henry Ranguette's court to a charge of reckless driving and is arranging to pay a fine of $15 and costs of $8.25. The alternative is 20 days in jail.

Escanaba police arrested Rogers Thursday night on Stephenson Ave. after an officer pursued his speeding car. Police reported Rogers ran a stop sign, made an improper turn, and forced the officer's car off the road before he was arrested.

Revolt Of Reds On Kojie Revealed After Censorship

one U. S. soldier were killed in earlier Kojie riots—Feb. 18 and March 13. The Army released correspondents stories on these shortly after they occurred.

Red POWs today hauled down 11 of the 17 North Korean and Chinese Communist flags they had flown defiantly over their compounds for months.

Two companies of British Commonwealth troops were due to land today to bolster the United Nations command garrison on this tension-ridden island.

Guard Gets Excited

The South Korean witnesses told Jorden a U. S. Army captain and six South Korean guards were wounded in the April 10 uprising. The American is Capt. Jack J. McGuire, wounded in the arm and thigh. He was given a blood transfusion on Kojie then transferred to Japan.

The informants said most of the fighting took place within sight of the camp commander, then Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd. Dodd was seized by POWs May 7 and released 78 hours later.

The trouble April 10 began near the gate of compound 95, the Korean sources said. An excited guard outside the gate fired a shot that wounded a Communist prisoner.

The witnesses said McGuire and two U. S. soldiers, all unarmed, went into the dispensary at the gate to bring out the wounded man.

Milling Red POWs drove the Americans out.

Dodd arrived almost immediately, the sources said, and ordered 100 unarmed South Korean soldiers to go in the compound, restore order and bring out the wounded POW.

Shot Rushing Gate

The prisoners drove out the guards with clubs and stones. The Reds, shouting insults, rushed the gate in an apparent effort to break out.

Guards near the entrance opened fire with a .30 caliber machine gun mounted on a jeep. Most of the casualties occurred then, the witnesses said.

The Reds continued to defy authority and refused to give up their dead, the witnesses said. Other sources said they released their dead the next day.

The dead South Korean guards were brought shortly after the battle.

Another source said the Red POWs were holding the bodies of some of their dead leaders on May 17, the date of Jorden's dispatch. This could not be confirmed, but the stench of death hung in the air about the compound, Jorden reported.

An escaped prisoner said the Reds in the compound were keeping the bodies of "five or six" prisoner leaders killed in the prison break and were washing them daily with alcohol in an effort to preserve them.

Discipline Tightened

The Reds ripped down their flags today apparently as the result of a short meeting yesterday between the new camp commander, Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, and a Red spokesman.

Boatner told the Red spokesman then the Geneva convention required a respectful manner in prisoners.

The Red spokesman, Col. Lee Hak Koo, had requested the meeting with Boatner. When brought to Boatner's office he expressed willingness to obey orders.

Boatner asked him if he were sincere and he replied he was. The general told him then that displaying Red flags was contrary to discipline and respect.

Lee tried to bring up other matters and Boatner walked out.

The hauling down of the flags appeared to be in answer to Boatner's walkout and his stern, firm command of the U. N. prison camp No. 1.

It was possible the half dozen compounds still flying flags and Red banners had not received word through the grapevine from compound 76 where their leaders are held. All the Red elected leaders have been in 76 since prisoners in that compound captured Dodd.

general. Minnesota—Three at-large delegates, to fill out Minnesota's 28-vote quota, will be named at the Minneapolis convention. Gov. C. Elmer Anderson, and two other Eisenhower supporters, are expected to get the posts.

The big fight at Minneapolis will come over election of a GOP national committeeman. Incumbent Roy Dunn, a Taft backer, is opposed by George E. Etzell, who is favored by Anderson.

In Washington today, Sen. Edward Thye of Minnesota swung his support to Eisenhower. Thye had been backing former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota.

They will join other Eisenhower forces next week in South Dakota, which picks 14 GOP delegates in a primary June 3. Taft already is campaigning there.

Taft now leads Eisenhower 393 to 339 in the Associated Press nationwide tabulation of delegate strength. The Ohio senator picked up 18 delegates last week compared with 14 added for Eisenhower.

The tabulation is based on concessions, pledges, instructions and avowed leanings. Nomination requires 604 votes.

Among Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee leads the tally with 116, followed by W. Averell Harriman with 84½, and Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia with 66½. Democratic nomination needs 616 votes.

Other program features will include a moving picture on "Muskie Fishing." Lawrence Erickson is president of the Presbyterian Men's Club.

Author Oursler Taken By Death

NEW YORK—(P)—Fulton Oursler, 58, author of "The Greatest Story Ever Told", a book based on the Bible, and former newspaperman and magazine editor, died today.

He died in his apartment in the Hotel Navarro of a heart attack.

Oursler turned out a prodigious number of books and magazine articles, many of which in recent years reflected a strong interest in religion.

He was a former vice-president and editorial director of MacFadden publications and edited Liberty magazine from 1931 to 1942. Later he was a senior editor of Reader's Digest.

He formerly was a trustee of the Andrew Carnegie fund for needy authors, and was president of the Catholic Institute of the Press.

He was a member of the Alcoholics Anonymous Foundation, the Dramatists Guild, the Authors Guild, the Magicians Guild, and the Baker Street Irregulars, an organization of Sherlock Holmes devotees.

His hobbies included magic, ventriloquism, and the growing of poisonous plants. He grew the weird plants—rather than flowers or vegetables—at his West Falmouth, Mass., estate.

He is survived by his wife and three children.

Marines Near Death From Capsules Given By Los Angeles Man

LOS ANGELES — (P)—Two young Marines may die from bichloride of mercury capsules which police say were given them by a man "who resented their security and had an impulse to destroy them."

Held under $100,000 bond on a charge of administering poison with intent to kill is Richard McAlister, 22, employed in a blood donor center in Los Angeles' Main Street skid row.

The victims are Pfc. Keith Loran and Pfc. Loren Ticknor, both 22 and stationed at Camp Pendleton, Calif. They are in Corona Naval hospital in critical condition.

Det. Sgt. Herman Zander said McAlister told him he had been subject to fits of depression after being discharged from the Army two years ago. Zander said the two Marines and McAlister met in a bar, had several rounds of drinks and then adjourned to McAlister's apartment for more.

There, said Zander, McAlister gave each service man a capsule containing 1.8 grams of bichloride of mercury, telling them they would cure their hangovers.
